Yes, it mandatory for all swimmers and are available on the day

Do I need to wear a Helmet?

Yes, and must meet the AS/NZS 2064 standards

Which shoes do I wear?

Any enclosed shoe is fine. Specific triathlon shoes are best for riding and slip on or shoes with elastic laces are best for the run. Just practice with whatever setup you choose

Do I need to wear socks?

No, this is optional as it is only a short course

Can I use road bike shoes?

Yes, but be cautious as the cleats can be awkward to run on.

Food & Drink

What should I eat/drink?

Try to only eat/drink what you have trained with, eating something new (IE sports drink or gels) on the day may make you feel sick

When should I eat?

Eating a good meal at least 2-3 hours before is crucial

When should I drink?

Drink a little and often. If you are feeling thirsty, you're already dehydrated.

How should I arranging my clothing & equipment?

Swim Stage	Put on your outfit well prior to the start of your event to minimise any delay and have your goggles & swimming cap on hand
Bike Stage	Place your bike facing outward in your bike rack position Set your water bottle in the bottle cage or on the ground (if you have no bottle cage on your bike DO NOT take it out on to the bike circuit) Position your helmet, shoes, etc. next to your bike on the ground, clipless bike shoes may be attached to the bike
Run Stage	Leave your running shoes next to your bike in the bike rack.

How should I Transition between Stages? - Individual

Swim to Bike	Place your goggles and cap next to your bike Put on your helmet, shoes, etc. Collect your bike and take it to the Zebra Crossing before mounting
Bike to Run	Riders must dismount their bike before the bike racks and position it back in the same position it was taken from Take off your helmet, glasses, etc. and place on the ground next to your bike Put on your running shoes (ignore this step if you're wearing running shoes) GO!

How should I Transition between Stages? - Team

Swim to Bike	Transitioning from the swimmer to bike rider is to be done by tagging each other outside of the Pool Gates (the rider should already be wearing their helmet, glasses, etc.) Collect your bike and take it to the Zebra Crossing before mounting
Bike to Run	Riders must dismount their bike before the bike racks and position it back in the same position it was taken from Riders must then proceed to the Zebra Crossing to tag the runner.

Follow Individual Transition if they same person is doing 2 consecutive stages
